

Business-ready from day one.

Your S/4HANA programme will be judged on one morning: the first day of business after go-live. Most programmes do not stumble on the system there, but on people and processes that were never made ready. Readyline makes every country ready: senior change professionals take every decision, and AI agents do the production work at a fraction of the usual cost and lead time.

The value proposition

The change management of a global programme, at a price a mid-sized enterprise can say yes to, with evidence of readiness before you say go.

What is in it for you

Who	What you get
CEO / country MD	You know you are ready before go-live, not after. A go/no-go advice backed by a readiness score per process and role, and a story your people believe.
CFO	Fixed prices per module and country, a small senior team instead of a junior pyramid, every next country cheaper. Benefits tracked against the value case.
CIO / CDTO	Your template adopted, not rebuilt in Excel. Every deviation needs a value case. Impact covers the whole chain, including the steps before and after SAP.
Programme director	Defined deliverables and gates you can hold us to, in step with your integrator and SAP Activate. Less time asked of your key users.

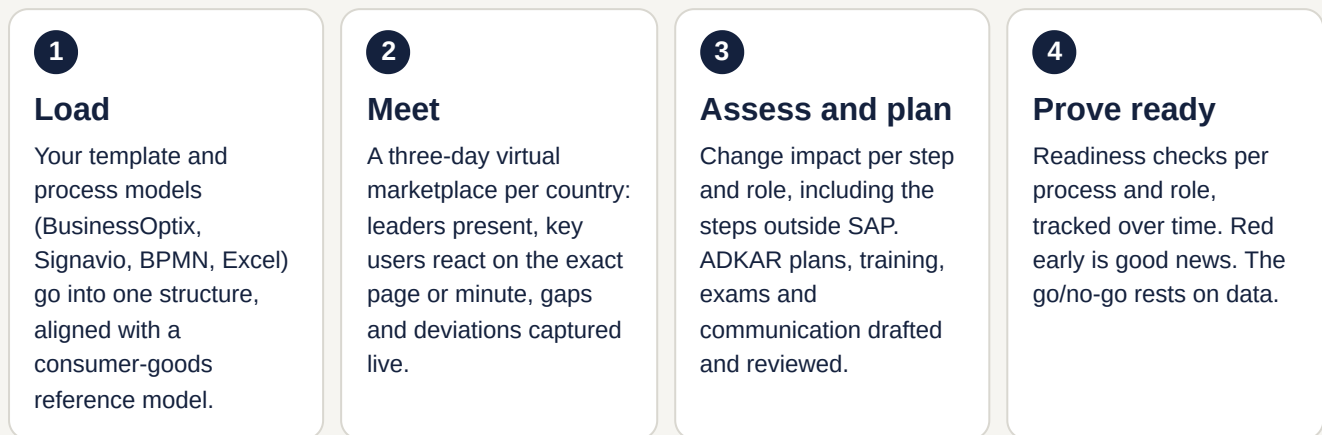

Senior judgement

Experienced change leads and domain experts review every output and lead every important conversation. Nothing reaches your people unreviewed.

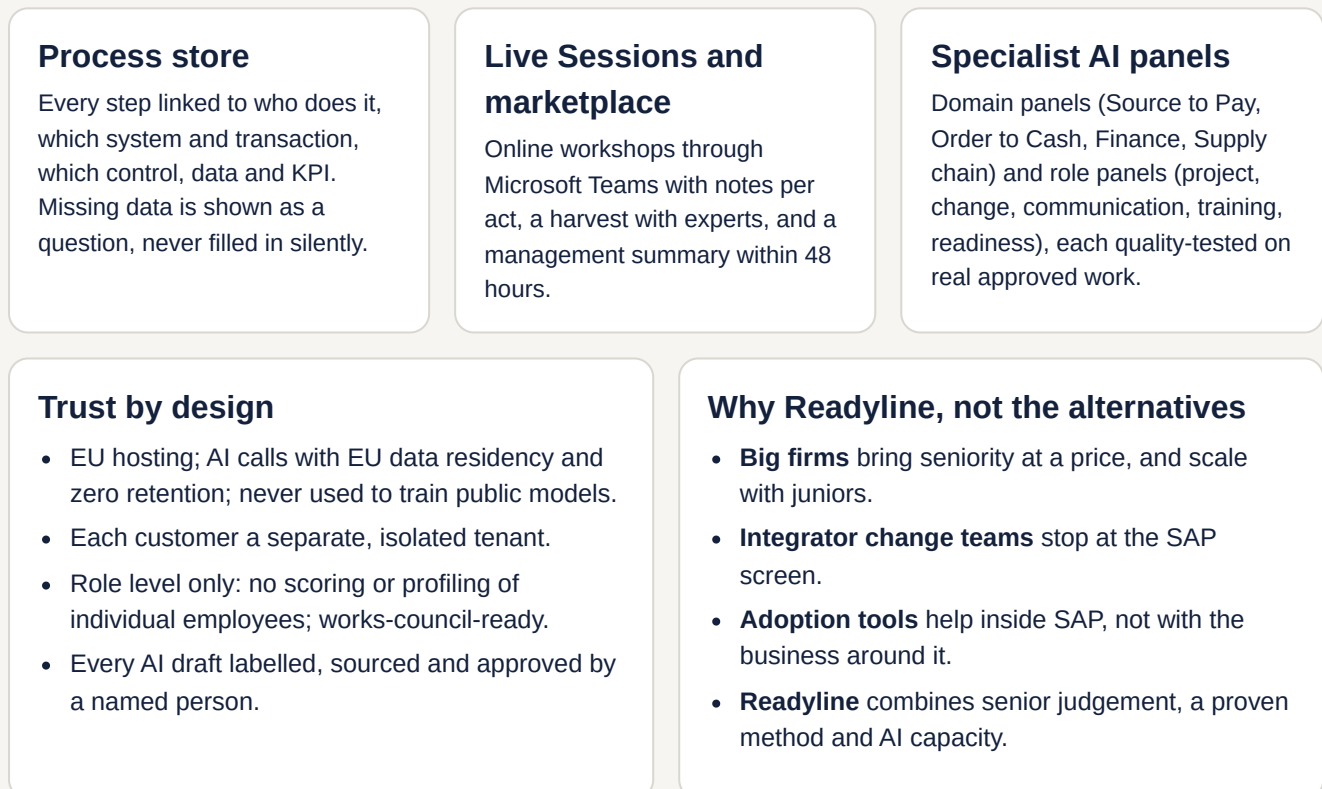

AI capacity

Specialist AI panels read your documents and process models, ask the follow-up question, and draft impact assessments, plans, training and communication in days, not weeks.

From your process models to a signed go/no-go, country by country.

The solution

Where we stand

Method, reference model, process store and importers are built and tested on 636 live process models. Live Sessions, the virtual marketplace and the first AI panels are being piloted on a real multi-country S/4HANA programme in consumer goods. Early customers shape the product with us and are priced accordingly.

Start with two weeks

A readiness quick scan of your programme: fixed scope, fixed price, no obligation beyond it. You get your change baseline, the red flags and a proposal you can compare with any alternative.
